

The HIF Pathway is a bunch of genes that help animals in places with low oxygen. The Copepod T. californicus lost these genes but can still survive in low oxygen waters, showing other genes are helping.

